

December 1, 2008

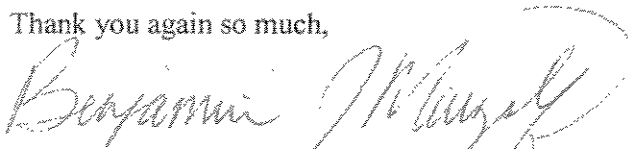

Adam,

I am writing to express my deep gratitude and sincere thanks for this past semester at Adam Leitman Bailey P.C. While working at your firm these past months, I have learned much more about real estate specifically, and the legal profession generally, than I ever thought possible. Whether helping the Transactional Department with the various elements of a bank closing, or helping Jackie to track down a defendant to be served with a summons and complaint, my experiences here will not be forgotten and I have furthered my legal education to an extraordinary degree. In particular, I thoroughly enjoyed incorporating Building Foundations Inc., your recent not-for-profit corporation. I knew nothing about incorporating a not-for-profit; consequently, conducting the research and going through this process was incredibly educational and rewarding. Also, I am very grateful for the opportunity to produce a writing sample on rooftop antenna agreements. As you mentioned, and as I have heard from other professors and attorneys at New York Law School, writing legal articles and being published whenever possible is a fundamental aspect of the legal profession. "Putting my name out there" with the rooftop antenna article will undoubtedly prove valuable in my future legal endeavors.

Besides the fantastic legal experience that I gained while working at your firm, I have incredibly enjoyed interacting with you and the other attorneys in the office on a personal level. I truly felt that everyone was more than a mere employee, we were all friends and part of a family. This atmosphere made it not just "a job" for the semester, but rather a joy to come in during the week and interact with other intelligent and driven individuals. I would love to end up working at a firm such as ALB P.C. once I graduate from law school, thanks in large part to you and your firm's professional yet friendly attitude towards our work.

I sincerely congratulate you on your success, and I look forward to continuing our relationship beyond this semester.

Thank you again so much,

Benjamin

New York Law School, J.D. Candidate 2010