

Adam Leitman Bailey Selected to the American College of Mortgage Attorneys

Adam Leitman Bailey has been elected a Fellow of the American College of Mortgage Attorneys recognizing national preeminence in the practice of mortgage law.

Formed in 1974, the American College of Mortgage Attorneys represents more than 400 lawyers in North America who are experts in the mortgage law industry. Fellows share a commitment to giving back to their industry, improving and reforming laws and procedures affecting real estate secured transactions, and raising the level of professional responsibility of lawyers practicing in this area.

Fellows have distinguished themselves as practitioners in the field of real estate mortgages through their bar association activities, lecturing, authoring articles and program materials, participation in the legislative process, and writing briefs and/or arguing cases that are significant to mortgage transactions.